

her dead & paid for it with his life. They were all hard working people & loved their work. One episode I have forgotten to mention, my wedding. We were married at Kingswood Wesleyan Chapel, by the Rev. Vincent. A simple wedding tho' many friends turned up at the Chapel. I had a pretty dove grey dress & a hat I made myself & we had a carriage & pair. I don't remember any motor cars then. Maurice, the one I mentioned was my bridesmaid & my brother Stanley best man. Cliff could only have 5 days holiday then & we went by tram to Ilfracombe. The weather was real summer weather, like we were used to then. It was a long hot journey, but a pleasant holiday. We had saved up enough money to pay for all our furniture. For all told, we were lucky to get it cost price as my brother was then still in the timber business. I was very excited buying it all. I had a very nice green carpet with a pink rose bud border. A silk tapestry suite 2 chairs & a nice settee, black Ebony fancy table & nice pictures for my little drawing room. A nice green leather suite for the dining room & we furnished 2 bedrooms with good furniture. Kitchens at that time only had just workable things. We had no gas stove to start with & had to cook on a coal range which I found difficult. A little oil stove I managed many days to cook a dinner. My husband was
